

CALIFORNIA VANPOOL AUTHORITY PRIVACY POLICY

Last Updated: July, 2020

This privacy policy ("Policy") explains how personal information is collected, used, disclosed and secured by the California Vanpool Authority ("Authority" CalVans "we" or "us") when you ("you", "your", "user") access the Agency web site(s) at www.calvans.org (the "Site"). If you do not agree to the terms of this Policy, please do not use the Site(s).

We reserve the right to change the provisions of this Policy at any time. We will alert you that changes have been made by indicating on the Policy the date it was updated. We encourage you to review this Policy from time to time to make sure that you understand how any personal information you provide will be used. Your continued use of the Site(s) following the posting of changes to these terms will mean you accept those changes.

What Is Personal Information?

As used herein, the term "personal information" means information that specifically identifies an individual (such as a name, address, telephone number, mobile number, e-mail address, date of birth, credit card number, social security number), or information about that individual that is directly linked to personal information. Personal information does not include "aggregate information", which is data we may collect about the use of the Site(s) or about a group or category of users, from which individual identities or other personal information has been removed. This Policy in no way restricts or limits our collection and use of aggregate information.

How Do We Collect Information, and What Types of Information Do We Collect?

We collect several types of personal information about you in a number of ways when you visit or use the Site:

Active Collection:

We collect certain information when you voluntarily provide it, such as if you send us an email, message us through any of our social media platforms, phone call, text, claim submission or you otherwise provide or request information. Such information may include various types of personal information. Additionally, we may also collect demographic information such as your age, gender, country and zip code of residence, recent purchases, and preferences. This demographic information may be associated with your personal information. If this demographic information is connected with personal information, we will treat the demographic information as personal information.

Passive Collection:

When you use the Site, no other information than the one you provided will be used. We treat this information as personal information if we combine it with or link it to any of the personal information mentioned above. Otherwise, it is used in the aggregate only.

We may also automatically collect certain information and monitor user activity through the use of "cookies" (including persistent and/or session cookies) or web beacons (also known as web bugs, pixel tags, tracking pixels, or clear gifs) on the Site. A "persistent cookie" is stored on a user's hard drive until it expires (persistent cookies are set with expiration dates) or until the user deletes the cookie. Persistent cookies help websites remember your information and settings when you visit them in the future. "Session cookies" are cookies that expire upon the conclusion of your visit to a website. These types of cookies are widely used to facilitate a consumer's interaction with a website. If you wish to block, erase, or be warned of cookies on the Site, please refer to your browser manufacturer to learn about these functions. However, if you choose to remove or reject cookies, this could affect certain features on the Site. In addition to the above, information provided by cookies, web beacons, or other devices may be used, among other things, to check that the van number matches with the name of the driver in order to track the miles covered that week/month, for monthly billing purposes.

Computer Misuse and Abuse: Criminal Sanctions - California Penal Code section 502

Anyone who knowingly accesses and, without permission, uses, misuses, abuses, damages, contaminates, disrupts or destroys a computer, computer system, computer network, computer service, computer data or computer program is committing a crime. Depending on the particular violation, fines and imprisonment vary in criminal actions as well as remedies recoverable in civil actions.

Data Breach Notice - California Civil Code sections 1798.29 and 1798.82. This Agency owns or licenses encrypted computerized data that includes personal information, as defined, and is required to notify any California resident whose unencrypted personal information was, or is reasonably believed to have been, acquired by an unauthorized person. The type of information that triggers the notice requirement is 1) an individual's name plus one or more of the following: Social Security number, driver's license or California Identification Card number, financial account numbers, medical information, health insurance, or information collected through an automated license plate recognition system; or 2) user ID and password or other specified credentials permitting access to online accounts.
